Atlantic Orthopedics operates a medical practice in Wilmington, North Carolina with 11 physicians. Their new facility is a modern environment with furniture and finishes that are attractive, functional, and timeless in color and design.

The customer's goals for their new 34,500 square foot facility were met on time and within budget.

Project Overview:

Atlantic Orthopedics evolved from the merger of two separate medical groups. Indoff was selected over the competition because of its superior design work and a wide range of excellent products at competitive pricing.

The project designed by interior specialist Debbie King consolidated all services at the new facility including physical therapy in one location that combined productivity with patient consideration.

John Kaiser, Indoff's local Partner, furnished all of the new furniture and accessories, and managed the relocation to the new building.

The furnishings met the expectations and the original budget of Atlantic Orthopedics.
